

EAT, PRAY AND LOVE

IN ITALY, INDIA AND BALI

OK! TAKES YOU BEHIND THE SCENES OF JULIA ROBERTS' GLOBE-TROTTING IN HER NEW MOVIE EAT PRAY LOVE

Julia shot scenes in Rome's beautiful Piazza Navona.

Get a table with a view at Bramante, at the Hotel Raphael (below).

FEAST IN ITALY

Julia Roberts jumped at the chance to play author Elizabeth Gilbert, whose film version of her best-selling travel memoir – about eating in Italy, praying in India and falling in love in Bali, Indonesia – hits theaters on August 13.

Like Elizabeth, Julia's journey started in the cities of Rome and Naples, where she indulged in some of Italy's finest restaurants like Naples'

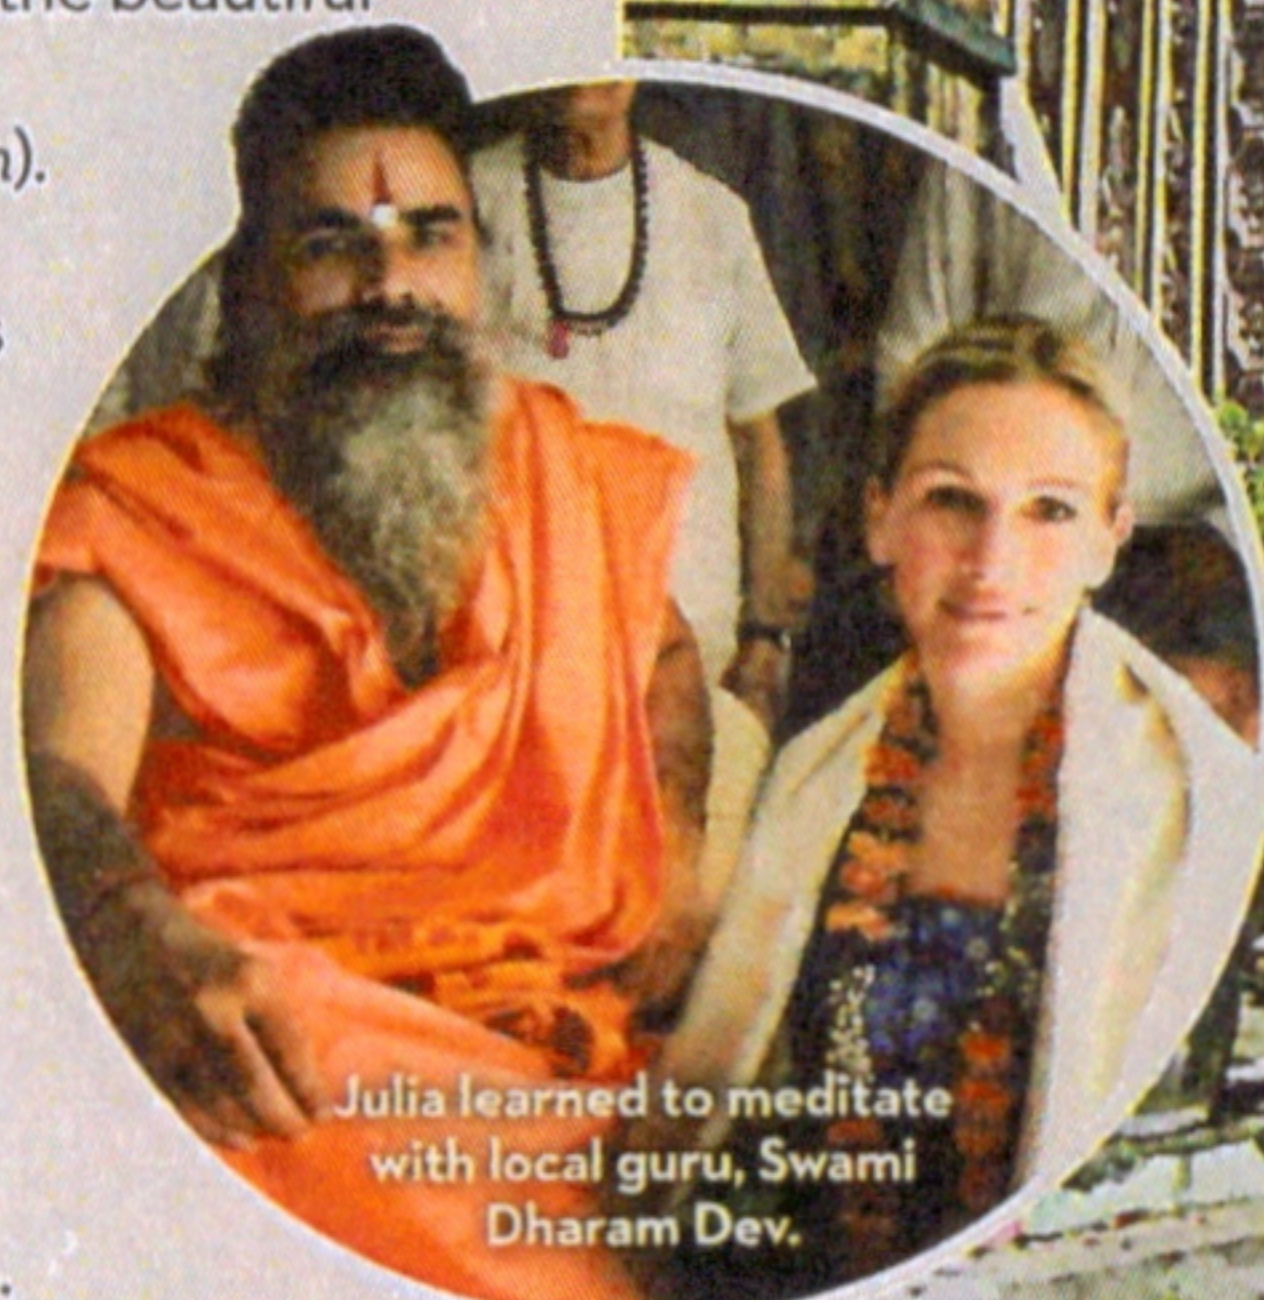

Pizzeria da Michele a Forcella. "I ate a lot of pizza in Naples. It was great," Julia told a British newspaper. "I probably put on about 7 pounds."

In Rome, Julia filmed scenes at the winding Via dei Cappellari, historic Piazza Navona and nearby Hotel Raphael (raphaelhotel.com). Taste authentic gelato at the chic, ivy-covered hotel's Bramante terrace restaurant, which offers prime views across the Eternal City.

FIND INNER PEACE IN INDIA

Traveling with her husband Danny Moder, twins Hazel and Finn, 5, and son Henry, 3, Julia's second stop was northern India's Ashram Hari Mandir. Although filming took place at the 25-acre spiritual retreat near New Delhi, Julia stayed at the beautiful Pataudi Palace hotel (neemranahotels.com).

"India is really amazing," the actress told photographers after filming scenes in Mirzapur village and the Pataudi market. Julia's daughter was even more impressed. "Hazel said when she grows up, that's where she's going to live," says the actress.

Julia learned to meditate with local guru, Swami Dharam Dev.

INDIA IS REALLY AMAZING

Hindu deities adorn the Ashram Hari Mandir temple, where Julia filmed scenes. "We tried to be on our best behavior," she says.

The Four Seasons Resort Bali at Jimbaran Bay offers one- to four-bedroom luxury villas, with private plunge pools and views of the Bali Sea.

Julia explores Bali with onscreen love interest Javier Bardem.

FALL IN LOVE WITH BALI

Julia completed her journey in Southeast Asia, on the exotic island of Bali. The Indonesian haven is famous for its friendly locals and beautiful beaches. Julia – like Liz – ventured inland to Ubud, a town famous for its Balinese arts and crafts. After shopping the local markets and exploring the Melanting Temple and Monkey Forest, Julia relaxed at the Four Seasons Resort Bali at Jimbaran Bay. The Four Seasons is currently offering a "Bali, Pray, Love" package, which includes a cooking class, guide to Bali's 10 most romantic places and a session with healer Ketut Liyer, who is featured in Elizabeth's book (fourseasons.com).

WIN! A SONY READER

OK! and Sony are offering readers the chance to win a sleek Sony Reader Pocket Edition complete with a free Eat, Pray, Love e-book, plus author Elizabeth Gilbert's follow-up novel, Committed. For rules and a chance to enter, go to okmagazine.com/eatpraylove before Sept. 1!